Place 20 Former Nazi Leaders On Trial For War Crimes

PA NEW OBSERVES

Pa News notes that the Friday the 13th club will have two meetings next year, one Friday, September 13, and the other Friday, December 13, both falling in the last half of the year.

The plea of people of the Court House area has been rewarded. It was observed this morning that the clock on Court House hill was officially pointing out the time. The clock was illuminated, too.

With favorable weather over the Thanksgiving period this week, there will probably be the largest amount of auto traffic on the highways at the Thanksgiving time that has been seen for at least four years.

With the war concluded and rationing of gasoline ended, there will probably be more family gatherings than for many years past.

Snow fence erection along the highways of the county is completed, in preparation for the winter. Last year it will be recalled the heavy snows that continued practically all winter, first hit this area on December 11.

It seems peculiar to some bus riders that the passengers who are riding but a few blocks from downtown, seem to be among those who are furthest back in the crowded buses, when the stop is made at their street. Much time is consumed while the bus is halted and they push their way forward through the crowd.

Pa News has received the following: "It was really worth while to walk down West Long avenue, Saturday night in spite of the rain, to see one of the biggest cakes ever baked here. It was really a creation and plenty of cake too. It made one's mouth water."

According to the State Game commission's report for 1944, a total of 2,702,395 rabbits fell victim to hunters' guns during the hunting season of that year in Pennsylvania.

Your Christmas Seals had a ride in 'Black Maria' Monday afternoon when they were taken to the post office by Officers Harry Reese and Albert Russo.

William O. Allen, R. D. No. 6, reported to Pa News, this morning, that five beautiful white swans came to rest on Swan Lake, Butler road, Monday.

While hunting in the vicinity of Liberty Grange hall on the Harlanburg road last week, City Fireman Mike Russo, bagged a red fox. It has been sent to the State Game Commission at Harrisburg for a bounty claim.

Raccoons do get around, it was learned today, according to a story by John S. Barnhart, service man at the Pennsylvania Power Company for 20 years. Recently, Mr. Barnhart noticed a raccoon weighing approximately 15 to 18 pounds on top of the Penn Power service building, South Jefferson street. In some manner the rodent became frightened and scampered up the smoke stack, which is fifty feet in height, and perched there. Mr. Barnhart placed ladders against the stack, and after much work, climbed a great distance and managed to knock the raccoon down. The animal uninjured in the fall, managed to get away into the parking lot for Penn Power employees, and hid underneath the cars, until it was safe to come out. Mr. Barnhart stated he did not see the animal again.

Not only school rooms but also a good many offices were probably disrupted for a while today when people discovered that it was snowing this morning shortly before noon, for the second or third times this season. Something about the first snows of the year make even grownups—including the groups who hate winter—as enthusiastic as the school kids. In spite of last year, a number of people were even heard to say favorable things about the possibilities of a "white Thanksgiving" today.

Former Leaders Of Nazi Germany Placed On Trial

Goering And Hess Are Leaders Of Twenty Nuernberg Defendants

LONG INDICTMENT READ TO GROUP

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(U. S. Staff Correspondent)

NUERNBERG, Nov. 20.—

Twenty former leaders of Nazi Germany went on trial for their lives as war criminals today and immediately fought back with a decision to challenge jurisdiction of the court.

During a luncheon recess which followed partial reading of a 43-page indictment accusing Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering and his high-placed colleagues of aggression, torture and theft, International News Service learned of this first coordinated defense move.

To Contest Tribunal's Power
The prisoners delegated Otto Stammer, Goering's own attorney, to take the step at the first opportunity, denying the right of the four-power international tribunal to sit in judgment upon them.

When the court adjourned at 12:30 p. m. after having been in session since 10:05 a. m. (5:05 a. m. EST), the courtroom was cleared of everyone but the defendants.

The trial was scheduled to move into a dramatic phase after the indictment has been read when defense attorneys will be heard.

Volant District Man Again Buys Bonds For Family

Frank Guarneri Purchases 16 Victory Bonds, One For Every Person In Family

Frank Guarneri, well known farmer of R. D. 2, Volant, knows a good investment when he sees it. And seeing it he latches on to it. Which explains why, on Monday, he purchased 16 Victory Loan bonds, one each for his wife, himself and each of his fourteen children.

Nor is this the first time he has done it this way. Fact is, it is the seventh time, for starting with the second war loan he has purchased a bond for his wife, himself and each of the fourteen children. That seems to add up to 112 war bonds.

In the service, during the war he interested himself in any home front action in which he could help. But best of all he bought war bonds, systematically.

One hundred twelve bonds make a nice stack of valuable paper. But it makes a bigger record of what Lawrence county farmer thinks of his country and its bonds.

The sale on Monday was made by Robert McCombs through the First National Bank of Volant.

Admiral Says President Saw War With Japanese Probable, Back In 1940

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—The Pearl Harbor investigating committee went into the detailed story today of how the late President Roosevelt, against the advice of his Pacific naval chief, insisted in 1940 that the fleet be kept in Hawaii as a "restraining influence" of Japan.

The witness for the fifth day of the history inquiry was Admiral James O. Richardson, who disclosed that he opposed Mr. Roosevelt's views at a White House conference in October, 1940.

Richardson, who believed the Pacific fleet he headed should be returned to the west coast and be ready for "war operations," was supplanted the following February by Admiral Husband E. Kimmel.

It was Kimmel's fleet—and Kimmel who was held partly responsible—when the Jap bombs fell on Pearl Harbor in the dawn of December 7, 1941.

Sensational Testimony
Richardson's sensational testimony included the surprise statement that Mr. Roosevelt told him the United States probably would not go to war even if Japan attacked the Philippines—but that "sooner or later they would make a mistake and the U. S. would enter the war."

British-Indian Troops Advance At Soerabaya

Suspicion Is Expressed That Rebels Are Using Poison Gas

BATAVIA, Java, Nov. 20.—(INS)—British-Indian troops made further limited gains today at Soerabaya where some 20,000 trained and well-armed Indonesians were estimated still to be resisting with machine-guns, light and heavy motors and heavier weapons.

British quarters expressed the suspicion that the rebels were employing poison gas in their defense of portions of the naval base city of Northern Java.

Despite the large number of Indonesian extremists in Soerabaya, where they had an adequate control of one sector, the overall opposition was described as "slight." This was attributed to the fact that the Indonesians apparently have no central command and no co-ordinated plan of campaign.

R. A. F. in Attack
Six Thunderbolts of the Royal Air Force went into action this morning after a surprise night attack by the Indonesians succeeded in splitting a British brigade at Semarang, where two British officers were killed on Saturday.

The Indonesians, having split the British positions at Semarang, quickly established themselves.

Says President Thought Japan Could Be Bluffed

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Admiral James O. Richardson, former commander at Pearl Harbor, told the congressional investigating committee today that he felt Washington in July, 1940 with the "distinct impression" that the administration thought Japan could be "bluffed."

The admiral testified on his conferences with former Secretary of State Hull during his mid-summer visit and said that Hull had completely presented his views of U. S.-Japanese relations.

"He felt that we should take a very strong position and that retention of the fleet in Hawaii was a reflection of that strong attitude," Richardson declared.

"Thought Bluff" Would Work
"I don't know where I got the idea but I left with the distinct impression that the administration thought Japan could be bluffed."

No Holiday Street Lighting Planned Here This Year

Downtown streets will not be illuminated with decorative Christmas lights this year according to John O. Huston, head of the Retail Merchants association.

Decision to drop the lighting this year was due to the fact that new equipment would be needed that not much is available and the cost would be too high for the results obtained.

However, next year, plans will be made early new equipment procured and Christmas illumination will be restored to local streets, it was stated.

Gen. Eisenhower Legion Guest At Chicago Sessions

Morning Parade Gives Chicago Chance To Cheer For Victorious General

ADDRESS TONIGHT OF GREAT IMPORT

CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—(INS)—It was "Victory Day" today at the American Legion national convention with General of the Army Dwight D. Eisenhower the guest of honor.

General "Ike" genial and smiling, was paying his first official visit to Chicago since his smashing victory, as Allied commander, over Hitler and Mussolini.

He was to receive a signal honor at noon when the Legion national commander, Edward N. Scheiberling, presents him with the American Legion distinguished service medal.

Speaks Tonight
Tonight he will address the national commander's dinner to distinguished guests in a speech he has indicated will be the most important of his career.

He was expected to give his decided views favoring unification of the Army and Navy command and also to discuss compulsory military training.

Chicagoans were afforded the opportunity to see and cheer the Allied leader in the European war in a parade which started at 10:30 a. m.

General Eisenhower came to Chicago from Boone, Ia., where he has been at the bedside of his wife, ill from bronchial pneumonia. She was reported greatly improved.

To Return To Germany
He will leave late tonight for Washington after his address which will be broadcast to the nation. He (Continued on Page Two)

Auto Workers Await Reply

U. A. W. Of C. I. O. Presents New Offer In Attempt To Evade Strike

DETROIT, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Officials of the United Automobile Workers C. I. O. today awaited a reply from General Motors corporation on the union offer to arbitrate its 30 percent wage increase demand.

Corporation spokesmen said last night when the proposal was made, that a reply would be given "early today," but refused to comment further.

The offer was expected to be rejected, however, since it involved "full access to all books, records and other documents," and the company consistently has refused publication of its profits and costs figures, as demanded by the union.

GM was given until 4 p. m. today to reply in writing. An emergency convention of 200 union delegates from locals in 100 GM plants throughout the nation was to adjourn at 5 p. m. today.

The meeting was called to "discuss proper steps" if the UAW-CIO demands were refused, and a strike by more than 300,000 GM employees already has been authorized by union members in two votes.

Telephone Strike In Illinois May Spread In Nation

(By International News Service)
A new setback to reconversion—which would paralyze the communications heart of virtually every community in the country—was in the offing today with a threatened nationwide telephone strike.

The threat developed when negotiations collapsed between telephone company and union representatives in an Illinois-Indiana dispute which swelled the idle in the telephone industry to more than 16,000 workers in the two states.

Regional Director Ernest Weaver of the National Federation of Telephone Workers declared before the Government Conciliation conference that the strike might spread throughout the nation if the Illinois Bell Telephone company did not yield to union demands quickly.

Industrial Conflicts Threaten Success Of Washington Conference

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—The labor-management conference worked today against a background of strikes and industrial conflicts that threaten serious limitations on the parity's success.

Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, warned bluntly that "any large war strikes are bound to have an effect upon this conference."

Another industrial spokesman, participating indirectly in the meeting, declared that the wage conflicts in the automobile, steel and electrical industries have from the start exerted a powerful effect on the union-business peace parity.

Watch Realities
This spokesman asserted that the delegates have kept a watchful eye on realities back in Detroit, Pittsburgh and Schenectady in making guarded commitments in Washington on ways and means of minimizing industrial strife in the future.

The automotive situation grew more tense with an industry charge that troubles in the industry stem partly from "our country's outdated national labor policy and the partisanship of government agencies and officials in matters where unions are concerned."

The Automobile Manufacturers association sent a letter to President Truman containing the statement. The AMA vigorously assailed the CIO United Automobile Workers Union for "misuse of its excessive monopolistic powers."

Seek To Remove Impasse
Action at the labor management parity was centered in the 16 member executive committee of the conference.

PLANE CRASH SETS HOUSES AFIRE

Firemen pour a stream of chemicals on the wreckage of a P-47 fighter plane that crashed in South Hempstead, N. Y., striking two bungalows, both of which were damaged by the ensuing fire. Witnesses said the pilot crashed the house apparently after a successful attempt to avoid hitting a group of children. The pilot, Lt. Daniel D. A. Duncan, 24, of New Iberia, La., died in the flaming Army plane.

Chinese Troops Are Advancing In Manchuria

CHUNGKING, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Central government troops were reported some 45 miles inside Manchuria in today's dispatches.

Pushing along the Peiping-Mukden railroad after breaching the Great Wall by capture of Shanhaikwan, eastern anchor of those fortifications, the troops of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek swept forward into the former Jap puppet state from which the Soviets are withdrawing under terms of the Sino-Soviet agreement.

Moscow Makes Requests
An authoritative Chungking newspaper said that Moscow has made 20 "requests" of the Chinese government.

According to the publication, a financial paper close to the government, these requests included a demand for control of important mines in Manchuria.

Councilmen Favor Bridge

Tell Motor Truckers They Favor Structure Over Neshannock At Mercer Street

Mayor John F. Haven. City Councilmen Joseph D. Alexander, James Gibson and Albert A. Hoyland put themselves on record as favoring a new bridge across the Neshannock creek near the foot of Mercer street when they addressed a dinner meeting of the Lawrence county chapter, Pennsylvania Motor Truck Association, in The Castleton hotel Monday night, November 19.

"We need a by-pass traffic artery to relieve congestion on Washington street," said Mayor Haven. "I believe the solution would be a bridge across the Neshannock, connecting with the by-pass over Grove, Neal and Taylor streets to Butler avenue."

The improvement of the present South Jefferson street bridge would be a fine thing for north-south traffic, but would not take care of the east-west traffic properly."

Non-Stop Long Distance Flight Records Broken

Army Air Forces B-29 On Way From Guam To Washington, D. C.

FORMER RECORDS ALREADY PASSED

BULLETIN
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—The record breaking B-29 landed at the Washington National Airport today at 1:35 p. m. EST after a non-stop 8,198 mile flight from Guam in 33 hours and five minutes.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—An Army Air Forces B-29 broke all existing non-stop long distance flight records at 9:30 a. m. EST today when it passed over La Crosse, Wis., after a 7,368 mile dash from Guam.

In making the announcement the Army Air Forces said the speedy four-motor Super-Fortress bomber was winging its way toward Washington in an attempt to set an over-all record of 8,197 miles without refueling.

The previous record was set by two British aircraft in 1938 when they flew non-stop 7,158 miles from Ismailia, Egypt to Port Darwin, Australia.

Thus the B-29 carrying veterans of the Pacific war already exceeded the British record of 210 miles when it roared over LaCrosse.

Soviet Forces Halt Iranians

Stop Two Battalions Sent Northward By Tehran Government

TEHRAN, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Russian military authorities occupying northern Iran today stopped two battalions sent northward by the Tehran government to halt rioting rebels bent on a march on the capital.

According to an official announcement by the government, the Iranian soldiers were intercepted by the Soviets at Karvin and ordered to return. Their destination had been the province of Azerbaijan, where disorders by separatist forces broke out resulting in the deaths of at least seven persons.

Occupied By Russians
Azerbaijan is occupied by the Russians who moved in from the north to take over part of Iran while Anglo-American forces took over southern portions several years ago when Nazi aggression threatened the rich oil fields of the middle east.

The Soviets are to withdraw by March.

At the time that the disorders first were reported, some quarters said the rioters were wielding Soviet arms and traveling in Russian trucks.

Karvin is approximately half way between Tehran and Zinvan, 118 miles north of the capital. Rebel units were reported near Zinvan last night.

ADMIRAL SAYS PRESIDENT SAW WAR BACK IN 1940

question the veteran naval leader, now retired, on what he believed the late president meant by an eventual "mistake."

Correspondence between Richardson and Admiral Harold R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, confirmed the concern of both officers over the darkening war clouds and the possibility of a surprise attack by the Japs. Richardson warned the late Navy Secretary Frank Knox in 1940 of the "disadvantages" in basing the fleet at Pearl Harbor.

Here is Richardson's account of the October, 1940, luncheon with Mr. Roosevelt and Admiral William D. Leahy, then governor-general of Puerto Rico and later chief of staff to the president:

"I took up the question of returning to the Pacific coast all of the fleet except the Hawaiian detachment. The president stated that the fleet was retained in the Hawaiian area in order to exercise a restraining influence on the actions of Japan."

"I stated that in my opinion the presence of the fleet in Hawaii might influence a civilian political government, but that Japan had a military government which knew that the fleet was undermanned, unprepared for war and had no train of auxiliary ships without which it could not undertake active operations. Therefore the presence of the fleet in Hawaii could not exercise a restraining influence on Japanese action."

"Later I asked the president if we were going to enter the war."

"He replied that if the Japanese attacked Thailand, or the Kra peninsula, or the Dutch East Indies we would not enter the war, that if they even attacked the Philippines he doubted whether we would enter the war, but that they could not always avoid making mistakes and that as the war continued and the area of operations expanded sooner or later they would make a mistake and we would enter the war."

fense counsel was to propose that each accused man be permitted to deliver a 10-minute personal reply to specific charges and then be allowed to plead guilty or not guilty to generalities.

The defendants, incidentally, appeared to be generally satisfied with the proceedings although some of their lawyers were angry over the blunt refusal of guards to allow them to talk to the prisoners.

However, the lawyers agreed not to protest openly against alleged breach of privileges.

Court reconvened after luncheon at 2:10 p. m. (8:10 a. m. EST).

Another defense move was taken when the defendants applied for the right to vindicate Nazi organizations as a whole. Ludwig Babel was presented as attorney for the Gestapo and Rudolph Meikel for the storm troop organization.

The court appointed one Herr Bergold as lawyer for Martin Bormann, missing deputy leader of the Nazi party.

Goering First In

Headed by Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering in a fancy German air force uniform, the score of defendants were marched under guard into the prisoners' dock of the Nurnberg palace of justice.

There they sat under the glare of bright lights while a 43-page indictment, describing in meticulous detail their crimes against the German people and the world, was read through a complicated system of multi-lingual microphones.

Lord Justice Sir James Lawrence, heading the British side of the four-nation prosecution staff, said:

"The trial about to begin is unique in history. It is the duty of all to see that the trial in no way departs from the principles of justice."

The opening session of this first international trial against aggressors and war criminals in the history of the world started at 10:05 a. m. (5:05 a. m. EST) when Sidney Alderman, assistant prosecutor on the American delegation, began reading the long indictment.

Hess Among Defendants

The defendants were ushered into the prisoners' box, one by one, in the order that they are mentioned in the indictment which assistant prosecutor Sidney Alderman read.

Hermann Goering, plump former Reichsmarshal of the Luftwaffe and "successor-designate" to Hitler, was number one. He attempted a few weak smiles at the courtroom filled with prosecutors and correspondents.

Rudolf Hess, once No. 2 Nazi who has been protesting inability to remember anything of his life during the Nazi regime, was one of the first to enter the courtroom. He stared straight at the ceiling, saying nothing.

Other prisoners glanced almost with amusement at Goering in his move Luftwaffe uniform. They whispered cynically, nodding also in the direction of Field Marshal Gen. Wilhelm Keitel and former foreign minister Joachim Von Ribbentrop.

Keitel was the only other defendant besides Goering who wore a uniform. Neither of them, however, had decorations or insignia of rank.

throwing up roadblocks on the three main roads leading from the important Central Java city.

The RAF immediately warned them that they had 90 minutes to evacuate positions gained in the surprise attack or be bombed. Upon expiration of the time limit, the Thunderbolts roared over, dropping 500-pound bombs in the center of the Indonesian formations.

Exercises also were subjected to aerial strafing.

Conditions at Magelang and Bandung were described as "tense," with two Dutch women killed and two men wounded in new outbreaks of violence.

Report Gas Used

The report that Indonesians may be using gas at Soerabaya, where bloody fighting has been going on since a British officer, he said that he "strongly suspected" they were resorting to this means of warfare in the form of chlorine-filled bottles.

Earlier, a dispatch from Batavia to the London Daily Sketch said that fears were expressed that Indonesians might use poison gas after discovery of stocks of glass bombs containing chlorine. These were believed to have been left by the Japs.

There were conflicting reports on the situation at Soerabaya, one being that the British were completing their occupation of the town against slight opposition and the other that Indonesian resistance was stiffening.

However, officers said that the Indonesians still were in possession of a fair amount of heavy equipment and that extreme casualties were estimated at some 50 slain, 50 others wounded and about 150 captured.

Lieut. Gen. Sir Philip Christison, Allied commander in the Dutch East Indies, left Batavia for Soerabaya yesterday as other fresh fighting was reported in the Soerabesar district.

impression that in Washington there was an opinion that Japan could be bluff.

Earlier Richardson testified that he maintained a dawn and a dusk air patrol over Hawaii because he feared some "fantastic" Jap officer—not the Japanese fleet—might suddenly attack.

In recounting his summer visit to the capital, Richardson said he lived with Admiral H. R. Stark, then chief of naval operations, and felt that Stark personally endorsed his view that the fleet should not be kept in Hawaii at that time.

My belief is that had Admiral Stark been uninfluenced by other considerations, he would have wholeheartedly agreed with me," Richardson said.

Meantime, informed quarters insisted that Sino-Soviet talks on the Manchuria situation are likely to be forthcoming shortly. There was some difference of opinion, however, as to whether these discussions would take place at Moscow or in Chungking.

SMALL FIRE MONDAY

City firemen were called to the home of Joe Lutz, 4127, of rear 412 River street, at 8:50 p. m. Monday, where a small fire was found. Damage of around $5 was reported by Fire Chief James E. Thomas.

Members of the steering group are Johnston, CIO President Philip Murray; AFL President William Green; Mine Chief John L. Lewis; Ira Mosher, president of the National Association of Manufacturers; and T. C. Cashen of the Railroad Brotherhood.

The "Big Six" sought a solution to a conference subcommittee disagreement over the use of voluntary arbitration to settle disputes arising out of contracts.

Most important problem awaiting decision of the "Big Six" however, was believed to be the issue of whether the conference will approve the use of fact finding boards or some other machinery to settle disputes when negotiation between the parties collapses.

The meeting was for the purpose of discussing informally the problems of the trucking industry and the traffic problem of the city. It was a down to earth discussion with the truck operators and the city officials displaying a fine spirit of cooperation.

State President Paul W. Keely was a guest at the dinner and spoke briefly upon race structures.

NON-STOP LONG DISTANCE FLIGHT RECORDS BROKEN

the bomber was scheduled to land at the Washington National Airport at 1:30 p. m. EST.

Two Commanders

The record-breaking B-29 is commanded by Col. Clarence S. Irvine, S. Paul, Neb. and Lt. Col. George R. Stanley, West Hartford, Conn. It was explained that the plane has two commanders because it is operating with two full crews.

The plane took off from the great B-29 field on Guam at 2:39 a. m. EST Monday. It was the first non-stop flight of that distance and it was the first such attempt from the Marianas base.

Other attempts were made to break the non-stop record, but those planes took off from Hokkaido Island, Japan, and they flew the shorter great circle route through the Kuriles and the Aleutian chain.

The Superfort which broke the world record today was stripped of excess weight and slightly modified to streamline it for the flight. The ship was being flown by two specially picked and trained crews which took turns at control and observation stations.

The plane carried 11,110 gallons of gasoline at takeoff, which constituted almost half of the gross weight of the craft—141,000 pounds, when it left Guam. Extra gas was stored in 13 auxiliary tanks.

The titled general served as commander of Japan's crack Kwangtung army from 1931 to 1935. It was during this period that he was blamed for plotting and carrying out the so-called "Mukden Incident" which served as an excuse for the then undeclared war against China. Honjo reportedly "framed" the wrecking of a railroad train and blamed it on Chinese guerrillas.

AGAIN!

Again, we are first in this community to have metal, air-sealed vaults. We were the first to have metal caskets, and now, with the metal vault, anyone can purchase a pre-war funeral, not alone from us, but from your funeral director in this community, as he can purchase these articles from us at wholesale prices.

We are glad to say that we have never been without metal vaults and caskets, but now, with the return to the manufacture of these articles, we are the first in this community to receive post-war merchandise.

Dr. Pauline Beery Mack Speaks At Open Meeting

Members of the Woman's club and of other clubs of the city who attended the open meeting on the "World Food Problems" in Highland U. P. church auditorium Monday afternoon heard a most stimulating speaker in Dr. Pauline Beery Mack, director of the Ellen Richards Institute of Pennsylvania State college, authority on textile chemistry and author of several books and works of research.

Dr. Mack won her audience from the start by her informal and forthright manner as she told of the research and advances in nutrition that have been carried out in Pennsylvania during the past years.

During the war, she said, the Pennsylvania program on nutrition was carried on in connection with the OGD organization, now discontinued. In food and nutrition work in the state, the surface has just been scratched, she said, particularly among lower income groups, and expressed the belief that the work will be carried on by public funds. She told of a number of interesting studies in nutrition conducted among various groups, e. g., growing children, families of a range of incomes, farm families, urban families, etc.

Good Eating Costs No More
One intensive piece of research with 65 families just completed last month, she said, that with good kitchen management habits, it does not cost more and takes less time and energy for a family to have good dietary habits and be well fed than to be poorly fed.

For the world food problem, which she said she believes never to have been so critical as now, Dr. Mack sees no ready solution but expressed the hope that we find some means by which peoples of the countries on the verge of starvation can get the basic food requirements.

At the close of her talk, the speaker answered questions from the audience.

Dr. Mack was introduced by Mrs. James W. Moorehead.

Hostesses were Mrs. L. C. Black, Mrs. Charles E. Allen, Mrs. Andrew Dodds and Mrs. Harold Philpott.

To open the afternoon's program, the Schubert Sextette sang a group of three negro spirituals: "Swing Low, Sweet Chariot" and "Little David Play on Your Harp". Mrs. J. McVaine, Mrs. James A. Rugh, Mrs. George E. Strehler, Mrs. W. J. Caldwell and Mrs. R. D. Rosenberger were those who sang, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Richard K. Allen.

Mrs. Alvah M. Shumaker presided over the business session, during which Mrs. W. R. Dickson, a newcomer to New Castle, a former resident of MacDonald, Pa., where she was a charter member and past president of the MacDonald Woman's club, joined the club as a transfer.

Ask For Playing Cards
Members were asked to report on war bonds purchased during the recent Victory loan drive and were reminded that Recreation Headquarters, Inc., have asked for 50,000 decks of new or good used playing cards for the use of service men on training.

Mrs. Charles A. Gardner, social welfare chairman, is in charge of the collection.

Mrs. Harry Barkby will represent the executive board on the nominating committee.

Board and business sessions will be dispensed with for the December meeting of the club on December 10 which will be an evening meeting held at the First Presbyterian church, a Christmas musical.

O. E. S. GRAND MATRON McVICKER IS HONORED

Thanksgiving was the keynote of a lovely event which took place in the Scottish Rite Cathedral Monday evening, when members of the Order of the Eastern Star gathered for their annual banquet, district meeting, and exemplification of work, in honor of Mrs. Frieda McVicker, of Windber, Pa., worthy grand matron of the Grand chapter of the Order of the Eastern Star of Pennsylvania. Other grand officers were also present and were accorded honors.

At 5:30 o'clock a reception was held, followed by the banquet, the guests entering the spacious dining room, where they were seated at long banquet tables, colorfully decorated in keeping with the season. In the center was a small table, with two Pilgrim dolls, seated atop a small rock, commemorating the landing of the Pilgrims, and surrounded by gourds, and other fall decorations. Yellow and bronze chrysanthemums were also used in profusion with yellow tapers in crystal holders. Large turkeys marked the places of the different chapters, with smaller turkeys at the guest places. This was the handiwork of Miss Helen Clarke.

All of the honor guests were presented with corsages, while the worthy grand matron, and district deputy grand matron, Mrs. Olive R. Hewitt, of New Castle, received orchids as they arrived at the tables.

An interesting program of entertainment was presented, featuring "A Procession of the Bowdler Puff" with E. E. Branstetter at the piano. William D. Williams was soloist, and Robert Sickeluse gave banjo numbers. Mrs. Evelyn McKibben, worthy matron of Chapter 333, was chairman and toastmistress, while the entertainment was in charge of Miss Dorothy Long.

Upon adjourning to the East Lodge room and joining other later arrivals numbering over 500 in all, the work of the order was exemplified in an impressive manner.

The chapter room was also beautifully decorated in fall colors and presented a striking appearance. Hanging from the center of the room was a dove, bearing the motto of the worthy grand matron, Peace. Honor was accorded all grand representatives, appointive grand chapter committee members, elected grand chapter committee members, visiting district deputy grand matrons, matrons, past matrons and patrons.

A guard of honor for the worthy grand matron was in charge of Mrs. Margaret Whitelton, with 16 taking part, during which Miss Ruth Well gave a beautiful solo number.

Other solo numbers during the evening were given by Mrs. Helen Felch, and Miss Lena Mae McConnell, while the choir of Chapter 105, served during the exemplification of the work. Another number on the program was a tribute to a star, given by Mrs. Edith Uby.

Mrs. Sarah McCreary was general chairlady, assisted by Mrs. Margaret Frank and Mrs. Lena Webber as co-chairmen. Committee chairmen who assisted were: Past Matron Dorothy Young, reception, Past Matron Margaret Brinton, lodge room, and Mrs. Evelyn McKibben, banquet.

The altar was beautifully embanked with chrysanthemums and ferns, and a large gathering of friends and relatives attended.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in an eggshell slipper gown with Venice pattern lace veil and bodice, the full skirt ending in a train. Her fingertip veil was caught in clusters of orange blossoms, and she wore a strand of pearls as her only jewelry. She carried a white prayer book, marked with an orchid and streamers.

Miss Rose Sacco as maid of honor wore a Colonial gown of coral taffeta, with matching accessories, and a strand of pearls. She wore a Colonial cap and carried yellow roses.

Miss Clara Tranquillo and Ann Delone, as bridesmaids, wore blue taffeta Colonial gowns and Juliet caps. They carried small Colonial bouquets of yellow tearoses and snapdragons.

Jack Fair served as best man, and ushers were Anthony Miscimari and Joseph Cubellis.

Supplementing the congratulatory period at the church, a wedding dinner was served at The Castleton for guests, tables marked for 40. Later in the evening a reception was held at a social room, South Mill street, from 2:30 to 8 o'clock.

Mr. and Mrs. Chiarini departed for New York City on a wedding trip, and upon their return will reside at 941 Marshall avenue.

How much can you pay?

What would you think if the clerk at your favorite store asked to see what you had in your wallet before he decided what to charge you for a shirt?

Or if, just because you happened to have some money saved up, you were asked to pay more than other people for a haircut, a movie ticket, or even such important items as rent, food and clothing.

That's exactly the kind of reasoning UAW-CIO leaders are using in their wage demands on General Motors—

They point to funds we have saved up over the years to expand and improve our plants and provide more jobs and more production. They say, "Give us that in higher wages."

General Motors does not go along with that kind of reasoning. People should not have to pay more just because they have a savings account—

For many years we have used our savings to expand capacity, create more jobs and provide greater values.

And we intend to keep on doing just that. We are, at present, embarked on a very important reconversion and postwar expansion program. Our objective, now as always—to produce more and better things for more people.

WASHINGTON CALLING

Veteran's Housing Problem Huge Issue

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The White House is being told in no uncertain terms that the problem of finding homes for veterans to live in is one that carries a dangerous charge of political dynamite.

One of those who talked to the President about it recently was Mayor Edward J. Kelly of Chicago. Whatever else Mayor Kelly may be, he is a shrewd politician who can see trouble on the horizon when it is still a small cloud.

The figures on the number of married veterans who will want places to live far exceed the number of houses and apartments that will be available even by the most optimistic estimates. The deficit adds up to a question mark bound to loom larger as the months go by.

Thousands Need Homes.
By the end of 1946, it is estimated, 2,900,000 married veterans will need homes. Of this total, 800,000 will be doubled up voluntarily with parents and relatives.

Another 1,000,000 veteran families can be taken care of in existing housing. This is counting on the construction of 475,000 units during next year, which is probably an optimistic estimate. On this basis, 1,100,000 families would have no place to live.

Not long ago, National Housing Administrator John D. Blandford went up to Capitol Hill to suggest to Congress the need for a fund to move government housing so that it would be available for veterans. He recommended appropriation of $24,500,000 for dismounting and shipping houses from areas where war industry are now needed to cities where the need is most acute.

A House appropriations subcommittee received him with scant courtesy. When he presented figures from out in the country to show how serious were the shortages, Chairman Clarence Cannon of Missouri accused him of whipping up a fictitious demand for new housing.

Meeting In Washington
This week, some of the leaders in the National Association of Housing Officials are meeting in Washington. They were called together by Hugh R. Pomeroy, executive director, not to consider the problem of veterans, as such, but the whole picture of future home building in the next four or five critical years.

One of the most powerful of the lobbies that now infest the capital is the real estate lobby. It is made up of two wings, the National Association of Real Estate Boards and the National Association of Home Builders. They are fighting rent control on new house construction and price controls on new houses.

The real estate boards are opposed to all rent controls after June 30, when the OPA act expires unless Congress takes action to renew it. They say that after that date controls should be left to local communities.

This substitute might work in some places. But, for the most part, it would be a fraud to lean on in the face of (1) the serious shortage that will persist long after next June and (2) the unspent billions in bank accounts.

Real Estate Inflation
No statistical charts are necessary to show that a degree of inflation in the real estate field is already here. Everyone knows in his own neighborhood the example of the house that sold one month for so much and, the next month, for 10 or 20 per cent more.

As to the long-term public housing problem, there is hope in the fact that Senator Robert A. Taft, a Republican, has come together with Senators Robert Wagner and Allen J. Ellender, Democrats, on a bill which will soon be presented. Wagner and Ellender accepted certain improvements that Taft suggested.

Not long ago, Taft took part in a radio debate in which he argued the need for the government to do part of the national housing job. He developed considerable heat in championing public housing to clear slums and give the lowest income groups a break.

Ever since then, the real estate lobby has looked on Taft with dark suspicion as a dangerous radical. That is a measure of the reactionary attitude of the lobby—that a Taft, a Republican Taft, could be mistaken for a radical. It is a measure, too, of the forces to be overcome if the housing job is to be done.

Just Folks

APARTMENT FOR BOOKS
My bookcase long has seemed to me a great apartment house to be. Wherein my lifetime friendships dwell. Awaiting me to ring the bell.

Each shelf, a floor where friends abide!
Wordsworth and Shelley, side by side;
Bob Burns and Shakespeare. Call, they say,
Whenever you may chance this way.

Some friends are old and some are young,
Some gifted with the witty tongue;
Some strong in faith, in wisdom deep
To aid and comfort all who weep.

As in some building's inner hall,
The names appear upon the wall.
So I, the varied titles read
To find the friend whose help I need.

In ancient times, when he captured a city barbarous Genghis Kahn would raze all the buildings and order the inhabitants lined up and destroyed. Now, with the atomic bomb, modern civilization can attend to those little details in advance.

Great Britain wants to borrow five billions and at the same time will probably take over British air lines. In short, we are called on to finance British trans-oceanic transportation companies so that they can compete with American lines on our money.

HINTS AND DINTS

Sun sets tonight 4:58. Sun rises tomorrow 6:35.

Talk to the point and stop when you have reached it.

This is the obvious choice: Keep America strong by wise saving or risk inflation and disaster by foolish spending. This is the obvious answer: Buy another Victory Bond.

About all some people give is advice.

Some one said, "Boys will be boys," but it also can be said that "Boys will be men."

JUVENILE LOGIC

"What is the half of eight, Frank?" asked the teacher.

"Which way, teacher?" queried the pupil.

"On top or sideways?"

"What possible difference does it make?"

"Well," replied the pupil, "the top half of eight is zero, but the half of eight sideways is three!"

Christmas problem: What to give the girl who don't smoke.

What's wrong with the country is that you can't see a congressman for breath of promise.

When it looks like a fight, keep close to the door.

And that reminds us of a diner who complained to the waiter—as he was using the pepper caster over a dish of oysters: "Good gracious! This pepper is half peas!"

The waiter was indignant and assured the gentleman that it was the best pepper to be had in the present scarce market.

"Nevertheless," insisted the man, "your pepper is one-half peas. Suppose you spell it."

Thrice blessed are those who know when to leave you alone.

To attain great success, a man must be more or less of a hog.

A rather corny singer was giving his renditions of the currently popular "hit" tunes as a small local nightclub. And more in fun than in appreciation, the audience called him back again and again.

A person is on the down grade when he quits being on the level.

When he had exhausted his assortment of songs, he proved he was not altogether lacking in wit when he stepped up to the amplifier, and said:

"Ladies and gentlemen: You are not the only ones who know talent when you meet up with it."

"When I sang this group of songs in Buffalo, the audience presented me with Twenty-Five Dollars . . . when I sang in Cleveland, they presented me with an automobile . . . when I sang on Broadway, they presented me with an apartment house . . . when . . ."

But then a loud voice from the back of the room interrupted, by asking . . . "Was it brick by brick?"

Just about the only thing left that is not put up in cans is intelligence.

To be smart, a man has to know the difference between conversation and facts.

The man who has his hat on ready to scoot when the whistle blows is not destined to become superintendent.

"But, father," argued the daughter, "I think we ought to buy an automobile now before the price goes up. You can buy one for a song now."

"Uh-huh!" agreed the father. "I know that song—'Over the Hill to the Poor House!'"

So live that the Press won't seem unfair and biased and unfairly when it prints the facts.

Some stars are very good, and others get by because all other available material is worse.

The proper measure of a man is the size of the men he brags about knowing.

Labor Publicity Presents Its Case

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20. ONE thing this labor-management conference emphasizes is that the day has definitely passed when labor can be accurately referred to as the "underdog." Labor ceased to be the underdog when its leaders contracted a political alliance with Mr. Roosevelt and thus added the tremendous weight of the Government to their own. This has turned it into the "top dog."

THROUGH presidential support in the last ten years, labor leaders not only have been able to increase the membership of their unions and the strength of their finances but to enact legislation putting them in a highly favored position. And they have been able to prevent all legislation designed to restrain or impose responsibility upon them. They are still in that position. Strong, rich, politically powerful they entered this conference with the advantage of having this President, despite surface impartiality, obviously leaning, as did the late President, toward their side and his two Secretaries—Mr. Henry Wallace and Mr. Lewis Schwellenbach—open champions of their cause.

UNDER the circumstances, that "underdog" stuff which they were accustomed to appeal, is ridiculous. The truth is that as a result of ten years of governmental and political subservience, these labor bosses have acquired so many advantages that it is easy to underestimate why some of them really believe they can—and should—run the country. And not the least of these advantages is in the field of publicity and propaganda. It is not only that they have developed a keener appreciation of the value of publicity than the employers but they spend a great deal more money, time and labor in obtaining it.

IN the present drive for a flat 30 per cent increase in pay, for example, the expanded publicity plans of the CIO can best be presented in the words of Mr. Hillman's high-powered press section, which says: "The main feature will be radio broadcasts over a national hookup on November 12 and 26 at 10 p. m. E.S.T. These broadcasts will be preceded by newspaper advertisements in the major industrial cities, and radio spot announcements. Other activities will include special byline language in the Negro, foreign-language and rural press by Philip Murray and other leading public and governmental personages."

CONTINUING the PAC declares that "We must rally public opinion behind our program by showing that labor's demands are for the good of the entire nation. This is not a job for Mr. Murray and CIO leaders alone. It is the job of every CIO worker. He must carry this message into the homes of friends and relatives, churches and synagogues, into the newspapers by writing letters to the editors, into grocery stores, meat markets and bakeries by placard and signs. The labor press has a major responsibility in this drive. We come to you to keep the membership informed through releases and stories. To aid in this job we will supply you within a few days with full-page advertisements bearing a special statement from Mr. Murray. Releases outlining the economic facts of our argument will be sent. Other one and two column matters will follow. We are throwing our entire working force into this drive."

NOW, there is nothing improper about any of this. The PAC is entirely within its rights. The point here sought to be made is that the CIO is in better position to present its case to the American people than any other organization in the country. It has the largest, most effective and expensive publicity machine in existence—far better than any group of employers possesses. It has practically unlimited money and a political power which it ruthlessly uses to bring to its aid as propagandists many public men in Congress and in the Administration. And its leaders are exceedingly articulate with views on everything from taxes to the atomic bomb and are skilled in getting them into print. Consider, then, the facts and it is easy to understand that if, in the present industrial-labor struggle, anyone's side is going to be underrepresented it will not be labor's. It has really great publicity advantages.

NOR is it an answer to say that most of the newspapers in the country are anti-labor. In the first place, that is not true. In the second place, more space is given by the press as a whole to labor's publicity than to industry's publicity. For one member of Congress who publicly defends industry there are fifty in legislative and administrative office eager to burst into print as champions of labor—and they expert as to how to do it. It has the great asset of governmental encouragement. It has the support of more radio commentators and columnists. It has, in fact, much better than an even break in all the channels of communication. Perhaps it is natural, but it often enthusiastically uses this superiority to misrepresent the case of the opposite side and overpraise its own. Labor is in no position to complain about publicity. Yet it does complain quite constantly. Actually, the labor spokesmen these days make the "big industrialists" appear exceedingly amateurish in this business of getting publicity.

The Parent Problem
By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

TAKING CARE OF PLARTRINGS
In quality and quantity, playthings for children suffered seriously during the war.

During the last few years most toys for toddlers put on the market have been easily broken. This applies especially to wheel toys. As a result, there has been serious harm to the character and citizenship of our future men and women.

Careful of Property
A child can't easily be careful of other people's property without first learning to be careful of his own. He hardly can learn carefulness of his own things when they are so easily injured. Even with the sturdiest toy, the toy must be guided considerably if it is to last.

Once a toy is broken, the child who continues to play with it tends to grow more rough. Its collapse may encourage him to wax more careless with other toys; and if these other toys also are frail, it is easy to see how he may grow more and more destructive.

The injured toy should be repaired at once, of course, and the child should be guided continually in careful use of his playthings. This takes time, yet wartime has meant less time for supervision of the youngest.

Fragile Toys
The war did not end early enough to make possible an ample supply of sturdy toys. Many toys are pretty fragile still. Within six months or so, more toys that can stand up to use by a young child should be on the market. It would seem advisable, therefore, not to buy many toys now but to plan the purchase of additional playthings after several months.

Anyway, it has always been a (Continued on Next Page)

Southern Senator Has Recipe For Good Spirits
Too Many Things To Worry About—So Why Worry?
Frivolity Excess In High Places Draws Censure

By HELEN ESSARY
(Central Press Columnist)

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—As stories, proved by factual evidence, reach the stay-at-homes of much disgraced looting by United States soldiers, the question is being asked by civilians:

Why did not the officers in charge of troops stop such shocking outrages? And there were many incidents best described as "outrages." Was it not their duty to control the men they were supposed to command?

Heaven knows, I cannot answer any of the messy questions peace has brought to light. Nor did I ever think that the wholesale killing and destruction of war could bring about a paradise of four freedoms.

I mentioned my anxieties to Senator Burnett Maybank (D of South Carolina) with a "How do you manage to look so cheerful when things are in the state they are?"

"I tell you it's this way," said the senator. "There's just so much to worry about. Strikes and unemployment and atom bombs and what to do with veterans and inflation and do we feed Europe and give money all over the universe and the next war? Not to mention such minor complaints as where does the butter go?"

"To tell you the honest truth there are so many troubles in my head, I just can't concentrate. So I have figured out the only thing to do is not worry about anything and do the best I can with each problem as it comes along."

LOOKING AT LIFE
By ERICH BRANDEIS

A friend from California whom I had not seen for more than twenty years visited us yesterday and brought back many old memories to me.

I was very young in those days—just out of college—and, like so many cub reporters, made a little extra money by being a press agent, or "public relations consultant," as they are called nowadays.

During one season I acted as press agent for the Yosemite National Park company and I'll never forget one stunt I staged—a wedding under Bridal Veil Falls.

Like most press agents I wasn't particularly daunted by the fact that there wasn't any couple that really wanted to get married, available at the moment. So I persuaded a college professor—whom I'll never forget because of his lovely beard—and a young school teacher to be the "bride" and "groom."

It was a beautiful wedding, indeed, with gorgeous bouquets of wild flowers and a band and a swell wedding dinner with hundreds of guests, and we even got a fellow to represent a minister and pronounce them man and wife. The next day pictures of this most unusual wedding appeared in several important California newspapers and I had written a swell story about this romantic affair in one of the world's most romantic and beautiful spots.

But two days later something happened that wasn't quite so romantic. The biggest one of the papers that ran the pictures and the story was served with a suit for $100,000 by the "bridegroom's" wife, and he himself was served with a divorce suit.

Well, I had a heck of a time straightening out the mess. But being young and rather persuasive in those days, I finally did succeed in straightening it out—a sadder but much wiser young man.

As we sat talking, this California friend and I were scowling over the death of another mutual friend who was a successful real estate operator. Many years ago he opened a new development in Alameda county, just across the bay from San Francisco. It was a beautiful spot and this fellow's advertisements brought many prospects. There was one thing lacking, however—there didn't seem to be any birds in that particular spot and several home-seekers told him so.

One Sunday morning he asked me to come out with him, and when the first prospective buyers arrived, I noticed the most beautiful singing of birds I had ever heard. Several sales were made that day, and when my friend was ready to go home I saw him go to one of the trees and sing a snatch.

I guess we can put his birdies to sleep," he said, and we went home. And then he told me that during the week he had had a lot of bird development, and all he had to do was to turn the switch and all the birdies would sing their sweet song.

But to his credit let me add this later on he really had a lot of real birds brought to the place so that none of the buyers were disappointed.

There isn't really any point to this story—but that is the way things happened many years ago—and maybe that is the way they still happen today.

I wouldn't know. I am very dignified in my middle age.

The World and the Mud Puddles

CHEESE YET ALREADY
For the chronic Dutch luncher, the old-fashioned Yank and the all-around American epicure, one of the war's severest deprivations ends with OPA's announcement that the points are off on cheese. Apple pie with cheese has been a classic luxury for generations. "Pippen and cheese," like walnuts and wine, go back to Shakespeare. But cheese's sorriest mourner for three long years or more has been the gourmand whose unending delight was in plain cheese and chackers, washed down by liberal draughts of a certain popular beverage. There must have been several million of these connoisseurs in the Armed Forces, for that is where most of our cheese has been gone.

There are those who seem to regard it as a virtue to dote on such alien cheeses as camembert, roquefort, limburg, hiederkranz, gorgonzola, Edam and others more or less distinctive and odorous. It is their folly to insist on the "imported" and decry the staple product of our factories. As an affectionate, let it pass. Your true cheese hound takes his cheese straight American—mild or rippe, Goshen or Tillamook. The one thing he can't abide is the paper-thin slices slit off with a safety razor to reinforce the mayonnaise in drug store sandwiches; your real cheese lover wants it in hunks.

Reconversion may tarry and demobilization drag along, but for a lot of us peace brings renewed enjoyment with the freedom of the cheese.

If those new sky-scraper hats for women remain in fashion the mid-gate air is going to have a tough time trying to stage a come-back.

Rev. Braun Gives Thanksgiving Talk To Rotary Members

Epworth Methodist Pastor Tells Rotarians Spirit Of Thanksgiving Is Needed Today

Members of the New Castle Rotary club heard a fine talk on the spirit of Thanksgiving from Rev. George R. D. Braun, pastor of the Epworth Methodist church at their noon luncheon meeting in The Castleton, Monday noon.

His topic was "Five Grains of Corn" and he spoke on the origin of the custom in New England of the Thanksgiving feast of placing five grains of corn on every empty plate, which represented the food supply of one person per day during the Puritan's residence in England.

Secondly, the five grains represented the number of kernels which were placed in each hull of corn at planting time, which represented the differential between life and death for a number of the Pilgrims during the first winter.

If this is to mean anything to us, he stated, in outlining five points of conduct, it should cause us to remember and give thanks for past blessings and also to move forward because of these blessings to greater attainment.

Using the Biblical thought, to whom much hath been given, much shall be required, it should symbolize the potential power within, whether we are five nations or five persons, who are bonded together to bring about good.

It should also symbolize the thought of service, in which we should recognize the fact that he who would help the world, must serve the world. In addition, it should symbolize sacrifice. In order to produce that spirit of friendliness and make a contribution of value to the world, we must be willing to give something of ourselves.

And finally, we should have an understanding of these servicemen who have given so much and stand ready to help them in their hour of need, now that they have come back home, many of them broken in spirit and body and awaiting a word of encouragement or a kindly pat on the shoulder if nothing else.

Capt. J. V. Gallacher, who served with the 20th Air Force, was a guest of the club. Capt. Gallacher is now on furlough after distinguished service in the armed forces.

Especially so, since the walls have been painted.

"Don't tell me anything more about the war, I'm sick of it," you say. Perhaps you are right. But there are some echoes of extraordinary goings on in the European and Pacific theaters that ought to be given an airing.

For example, the carefree activities of many high-ranking officers who quite forgot the wives they left behind. There were open examples of extra curricular life that, speaking politely, were not a pretty example to enlisted men.

You hear criticism of the frivolousness of some women in uniforms. I've inquired a bit into these situations. To every question I got the same answer:

"This is one time when you have to blame the women. You can't say the girls stalked me men. The situation was quite the opposite. The girls with few exceptions were nice girls. But the men—they were silly and vain. Determined to be frisky regardless of the spectacle they made of themselves."

foolish practice to heap upon the child many playthings all at once. Over 90 per cent of the toy sales before Pearl Harbor were made around Christmas time.

If parents must allot a certain amount of money for Christmas gifts to the child, they should set aside a portion of it for the purchase of toys and tools later, even for several years hence. This should apply especially to the purchase of good tools for gradually developing a workshop for the child.

Fortunately, the old group games for non-running play for children from six to 14 are available and have good value. Also available are many creative materials like crayons, water colors and paints. Be-sure to include some good books and one or several children's magazines.

Within the limits of what are available, ask yourself a few questions. How sturdy is the toy? For how many months or years will the child use it? Is it suited to his age and experience? Will it either encourage him in self-reliance or in social play? How safe is it? What playthings will stimulate his imagination?

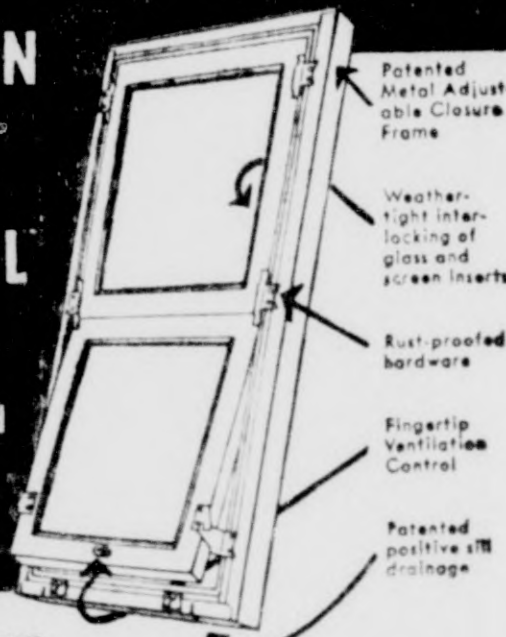

I have made up a graded list of toys and tools which might offer you some suggestions, though some in the list are not now available, certainly not in high quality. The list may be had in a stamped, addressed envelope by writing me at 235 East 45th street, New York City.

Everett P. Barker Describes Radio Controlled Shell

Local Sailor Tells Of Secret Weapon Which Caused Devastation To Kamikaze Fleets

Everett P. Barker, fire controlman 1-c, of the U. S. S. Curlew, which participated in many of the major battles of the Pacific during the war, including Leyte, Lingayen Gulf and Okinawa, sends home an interesting account of the recently released secret of the V. T. (variable time) fire. This was known to the army as "poor" and the navy boys dubbed it "Buck Rogers". This shell had a tremendous effect in hastening the end of the war, Barker states.

It is a self-powered radio transmitter and receiver, small enough to fit into the nose of an anti-aircraft shell, and tough enough to stand the terrific shock of firing. As the gun is discharged, the shock smashes a glass container of electrolyte, which the spin of the shell forces into the plates of a battery. Current flows, the radio tubes light up, and the transmitter broadcasts a continuous wave.

When part of this wave is reflected back from a plane 70 feet away, it interacts with the transmitted wave and tips an electronic switch, which shoots a current thru the detonator. The shell explodes at the ideal distance for maximum effect. Similar fuses were made of bombs, causing them to explode just above the ground.

This all but thinking fuse, a long-time dream of armymen, far exceeded expectations, Barker writes. It proved enormously effective against Jap planes, helped lick the V-1 buzz bombs over England and helped stop Von Runstedt in the Battle of the Bulge, he states.

Fire Controlman Barker is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Boyd E. Barker of 139 1/2 Park avenue.

Victory Gymanfa Ganu Scheduled For Akron, Ohio

President Henry T. Jones Of New Castle Announces Place Of 1946 Meeting

Henry T. Jones of New Castle, president of the International Gymanfa Ganu association, announced today that Victory Gymanfa Ganu will be held in Akron, O., Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 31, and Sept. 1, 1946.

The decision to hold the Gymanfa in Akron came after a session of the executive board of the association. It will be the first Gymanfa or "singing festival" of the Welsh-American people in three years due to the war and curtailment of travel.

The Gymanfa was held in New Castle in 1941 and this city made a bid for the Victory Gymanfa Ganu. Inasmuch as Akron had not had an international Gymanfa and the city demonstrated its desire to have it, the executive committee awarded it to that city.

Japan's Envoy Denies He Knew War Decision

By FRANK ROBERTSON
U. S. Staff Correspondent

KARUIZAWA, Japan, Nov. 20.—Saburo Kurosu, Japan's 1941 "peace" envoy to Washington, was on record today with a blanket denial of evidence tending to show that he knew beforehand of his nation's decision to start the Pacific war.

In an interview at his country home, north of Tokyo, Kurosu insisted that he had no knowledge of Japan's war plans until the December 7 strike at Pearl Harbor. Evidence produced at the current congressional Pearl Harbor inquiry in Washington indicated that Kurosu knew that Tokyo's war lords were ready for direct action.

The retired Jap diplomat flatly denied this evidence, he said he and Ambassador Nomura did not receive a Tokyo message November 22 instructing them they could wait seven days "before making a decision" but that after that time "things automatically are going to happen."

Admits Code Messages.
Kurosu did admit "rumoring" in code messages through telephone conversations with Kamaishi Yamamoto, then chief of the American division of the Japanese foreign office in Tokyo.

As to the content of these conversations, Kurosu was vague. He said he could not remember asking Yamamoto on November 27 whether "the birth of a child seems imminent"—the coded phrase for war action.

Kurosu claimed that he and Yamamoto were working for peace. When asked if it was possible for two top diplomats to be unaware of their country's intentions, he replied:

"It must seem absurd to you but it's true. The militarists kept their secret extremely well."

Present at the interview with Kurosu was the diplomat's charming, gray-haired American wife, the former Alice Little of Chicago.

"If only my husband had been successful in his efforts to keep peace," she said, "the world would have been spared so much."

Montgomery Ward Gets Final Terms

Final CIO Terms To Avert Strike
Of 75,000 Employees Given
To Firm

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Montgomery Ward and Co. have received "final" CIO terms for averting a strike of 75,000 employees throughout the country.

Samuel Wolchok, president of the United Retail, Wholesale and Department Store Employees Union, said the union is willing to withdraw its closed shop and check-off demands and submit other issues to arbitration.

Final Message
On October 25 the union's executive board voted unanimously to strike "at the most opportune time" in nine mail order houses, a number of large warehouses and 650 retail stores.

Wolchok, in a letter to Sewell L. Avery, board chairman of Ward's, offered to withdraw the closed shop issue from the union demands in seeking to open contract negotiations. The letter, Wolchok said, was the union's "final message."

In all the union has listed 21 demands, including a wage increase of 15 cents an hour, a 65-cent minimum hourly wage, grievance machinery and other benefits.

Irving Abramson, the union's national director, declared that the next union step will be announced Wednesday, depending on the acceptance or rejection of our offer.

Frank Wadlinger Home From Service

Pfc. Frank Wadlinger, 309 Ray street, husband of Mrs. Louise Taylor Wadlinger, has returned home following his discharge from the Army at Indianhead, Md.

Pfc. Wadlinger, who served three and a half years in the Army, received the ETO Ribbon and Good Conduct Medal for services performed in France and Africa.

Tax Collector Is Given Exoneration

Council convened Monday in City Hall and exonerated James Mayberry, city mercantile tax appraiser and collector, of the collection of $111.60 of 1944's delinquent tax uncollected out of approximately $5,000 turned over to him for collection. The exoneration was permitted when he said that it was uncollectable because the firms are out of business or the people who owed the tax have died or left the city.

Pvt. Bill Richards Given Discharge

Having been recently honorably discharged from the armed forces, Pvt. Bill Richards has arrived home. Pvt. Richards was attached to the military police and was stationed in Washington, D. C. He had been in the service about 18 months. Bill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Trevor Richards of 426 Bleakley avenue.

Congress Recess May Not Come Before Dec. 21

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Speaker Sam Rayburn said that there is little hope that Congress can recess for the Christmas holidays before December 20 or 21.

Rayburn and other Democratic congressional leaders held their regular Monday morning conference with President Truman.

"We hope to get out of here by December 20, 21, 22 or 23," Rayburn said, as he left the White House.

"We've got to act on the legislation that's now on the slate before we go home for Christmas."

He said that the recess would probably extend until January 10. Rayburn listed the full employment, appropriations, second war powers act, war agencies reorganization and deficiency act as measures which must be dealt with before Christmas.

He was accompanied to the conference by Sen. Kenneth McKellar (D. Tenn.) and Sen. Lister Hill (D. Ala.), acting for Senate Majority Leader Alben Barkley, and House Floor Leader John W. McCormack (D. Mass.).

TOPEKA, Kans.—(INS)—Pin-point bombing of military targets was strictly small time stuff, according to Sgt. Joseph W. Wright of Kansas City, who now is a patient at Winter General hospital after spending three years as a Jap prisoner.

Wright says an example of what Jap bombers can do was demonstrated when American planes flying food parcels to the prisoners dropped a case of tomatoes which went through the mess hall roof and into the cooking pot.

Baby Born After Death Of Mother Making Progress

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—(INS)—A baby girl who was born six weeks prematurely 20 minutes after her mother died was getting along "satisfactorily."

The shy young doctor who delivered the tiny offspring made medical history by the feat only one day after opening his Philadelphia office.

Dr. Irving E. Uram, 28-year-old obstetrician, delivered the child of Mrs. Mary Zaccaria, 36, who died of a heart attack. The mother had been in Jefferson hospital since Oct. 3 for treatment of septicemia complicating pregnancy.

Longest Interval
The interval between the baby's birth and the death of the mother was believed by doctors at the Philadelphia hospital to be the longest on record.

Another physician on the institution's staff was present at Mrs. Zaccaria's death and, believing her child might still be alive, ordered the woman rushed to the operating room.

Without hesitation, Dr. Uram, who had just performed another cesarean, operated on Mrs. Zaccaria and delivered the baby in 20 seconds flat.

"I didn't even have time to put on an operating gown," Dr. Uram told International News Service. "I simply changed gloves and performed the operation in my scrub suit."

Dr. Uram said the child is in "excellent condition" and should survive. The girl weighed four pounds, three ounces at birth, but today was down to four pounds.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—The supreme court refused to review the conviction of Wayne T. Lonergan for the brutal slaying of his New York socialite wife in 1943. Lonergan, now serving a 35 years-to-life sentence which was upheld on appeal by the New York Supreme Court Appellate Division and the New York Court of Appeals.

He based his petition for review on the ground that his confession to the murder, on which the state based its case, was not voluntary but extorted by 78 hours of grilling in the New York district attorney's office.

NATURALIZATION COURT

Fifty-three men and women were naturalized Monday by Judge W. Walter Braham, one candidate was repatriated and three were held up. Among the three whose applications were not granted was Stanley Blazek, one-time co-leader of a fellow named Adolf Schickelgruber in Austria. Adolf went on to become dictator by the name of Hitler. Mr. Blazek came to New Castle in the early 1930s and has lived here since. His application for citizenship was held up because of some costs he owed in a misdemeanor some 18 years ago. As a young man he painted houses with Hitler and according to him, Hitler wasn't even a good painter.

Charles L. Hellman, of the Bureau of Naturalization was the examiner for the Department of Labor. Judge Braham delivered the charge to the candidates and the oath was administered by Protostary and Clerk of Courts John A. Edgar.

DISCHARGES ROLLING

Cpl. David J. Forrest of the county commissioners' office is back in civilian life after three years and five months of service of which 25 months was spent overseas with the 95th fighter group, eighth air force. Corporal Forrest is the son of Jure Commissioner and Mrs. George J. Forrest.

Cancer Research Is Very Urgent Declares Wagner

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Sen. Wagner (D., N. Y.) veteran backer of labor and social legislation, labeled as "very urgent" the need for cancer research cited by President Truman in his message to Congress asking a compulsory national health insurance program.

Wagner declared that the answer to the problem is to see that money is made available by the government to carry on the research.

At the same time, Sen. McMahon (D., Conn.) who has proposed that the same concentration of effort be put on disease research as was placed on the atomic bomb called for steps to promote "co-ordinated effort."

I am heartily in favor of not only national co-ordinated efforts to promote research on such diseases as cancer and tuberculosis but also of international efforts," McMahon said.

Sen. Taft (R., O.) immediately labeled the proposal as "socialized medicine," which apparently pointed the way to a new fight on that issue.

Taft, backer of a hospital aid bill by which the federal government would undertake a five-year program of aid to states and localities, declared in a statement that President Truman "adopt the philosophy of the Murray-Wagner-Dingell bill as against the extension of federal and to state-administered activities."

Veterans Find Houses Scarce

House scarce and apartments are more than scarce, according to a number of young veterans returning home to settle down with their families in New Castle.

Jack Preston, executive secretary of the local Veterans' Advisory council reports that the housing situation is one of the major problems facing the men who go to the service. Information center in the U. S. O. building for advice.

As most of the men are referred to the Greater New Castle Association for assistance in finding houses and apartments, anyone with an apartment, room, or house which could be rented to returning servicemen and their families should contact the Association.

Strikes Make Huge Decrease In Coal Production In State

HARRISBURG, Nov. 20.—(INS)—The state mines department predicted today that Pennsylvania's 1945 coal output would fall approximately 15,000,000 tons short of expectations due to strikes.

Secretary Richard Matze said anthracite and bituminous production had been estimated at 185,000,000 tons but that the strike situation set the figure back to 170,000,000 tons.

"The strikes were the major factor in causing the production loss," Matze stated.

The latest production figures showed that 45,599,000 tons of anthracite coal had been mined so far this year in contrast with a 52,919,000-ton yield last year. Similarly, the bituminous output of 99,065,000 tons was 11,601,000 tons under the mark for the same period of 1944.

Seek To Break Tugboat Strike At Philadelphia

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Charges and counter charges by rival labor unions were hurled on Philadelphia's waterfront today as the CIO Maritime Union set out to break a tugboat strike called by the United Harbor Workers, a UMW affiliate.

The surprise strike by more than 700 dock and boat hands, which began Sunday, has tied up the bulk of shipping in the port of Philadelphia for the second time in less than two months and stranded each ship's midstream.

The National Maritime Union, however, put crews on four tugboats late yesterday and began towing stranded vessels on to piers.

National NMU Director F. J. Cunningham declared that "this strike, called by the Harbor Workers Union, is strictly an attempt by John L. Lewis to sidestep the union. We're going to move the ship."

To whom William F. Collier, NMU representative for the harbor workers, asserted: "We are prepared for a year's strike if necessary."

Cunningham countered that "Mr. John L. Lewis and his union will find out now that they're not dealing with prevail henders or laborers."

Seven tugboat companies were affected by the strike, believed to have been called due to the discharge of one man.

SCRANTON—Although the U. S. Employment Service has estimated 14,000 jobs were vacant in the Scranton-Wilkes-Barre area, approximately 30,000 workers were reported idle.

TO NAME DIRECTOR

HARRISBURG, Nov. 20.—(INS)—The State Housing Board was slated to meet at Harrisburg today to choose a director.

Richard Lawrence, Jr., chairman of Harrisburg, said several persons were being considered. The General Assembly appropriated $75,000 during the past legislative session for the board's activities, but did not designate the director's salary.

Rationing Of Whiskey Will Be Continued

HARRISBURG, Nov. 20. (INS) - The state liquor control board today continued whiskey rationing in Pennsylvania until at least January 3.

However, Chairman Frederick T.

Gulder reported that 125,000 cases of "unbonded" whiskey would be available at the 379 state stores beginning November 26.

Gulder said the "unbonded" liquor included from 12 to 15 different brands and some low alcohol content with some special notes.

It will be available without the usual 10-cent per gallon tax levied on the public and "unbonded" liquor.

He also announced that the board had sanctioned three one-week rationing centers beginning November 26.

In the last two periods, which started December 10 and 24 respectively, Pennsylvania will be allowed one-fifth of a gallon plus a pint of whiskey.

During the period which starts November 26, allocations will be confined to 100-1000 bottles.

Gulder said in the last of the three periods, the public allocations will be made as soon as the supply of stock is available.

During all three rationing periods, 100 cases will be allocated 90 per cent to the public.

These formal normal purchases of whiskey will be permitted to start November 26, according to Gulder. Whiskey is presently rationed by number, three at state stores while service men and women must obtain military papers.

CONNELLSVILLE - Col. John R. Smith, head of a lot of trucks, was ordered forward to transport the trucks. The command, issued in that the trucks were not to be used as a means of transport.

Fraternal Order of Police Avenge
Formal Appeal For Stove Township Chief

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—(INS)—The State Superior Court in Philadelphia today held a brief for the Fraternal Order of Police, avenging the formal appeal of a law officer from a two-year sentence for killing two men he mistook for auto thieves.

The two men—Ralph Landefeld and Edward Shuler—were killed by Stone township, Allegheny county, police chief, William C. Duerr, as the result of a trap which had been set for the car thieves.

The victim, who innocently fell into the trap had failed to surrender to police in the belief the officers were robbers.

The FOP, in supporting Duerr's appeal from an involuntary manslaughter conviction, said it looked to the court to serve police as "a beacon and a guiding light."

Samuel Gerson, FOP attorney, stated in his brief that the principal question to be decided by the court is:

"Under what circumstances may a police officer kill if necessary to effectuate arrest?"

The brief stated that "They (police officers) have always been under the impression that since they are the arm of the law, the courts which they serve would lend them every possible protection."

NEW WILMINGTON, Nov. 20.—Westminster college coeds, outnumbering men students by a 3 to 1 ratio, have been thinking seriously of putting "no trespassing" signs around the campus to eliminate outside competition for dates.

The situation became acute when every available man received an invitation to escort a nurse from the Jameson Memorial Hospital Nursing Home, New Castle, to a formal dance at the Castleton hotel.

When the announcement was read in chapel by Dean J. R. Spivey, the men applauded but the girls gasped. However, few of the men have admitted their intention of going. They fear the cold shoulder when they return to the campus.

Establishes Shoe
Fund For Needy Actors In New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Job-seeking actors made the rounds of Broadway booking agencies today with complete disregard of wear and tear to sagging shoes.

They acted as though footgear—traditionally a major thespian worry—grew on trees.

And they were not about 99 per cent right.

For word had gone out along Broadway, in Shubert alley and into the dazed corners where show-biz lurk that one of their own had died leaving a trust fund of nearly a quarter million dollars to buy shoes for actors' feet.

The benefactor was Conrad Canten, who died last June after a career liberally sprinkled with periods of unsought idleness. It was after he received a paper's funeral that a will disposing of more than $226,000 was discovered. It said:

"Many times I have been on my knees and the thought of the shoes of my shoes were the less courage I had to face the manager in looking for a job."

Therefore, he explained, he had decided to establish the "Conrad Canten shoe fund for the purpose of supply footwear . . . to all needy actors . . . even if they aren't looking for a job."

Executives of the war-time Guaranty Trust Co. said they did not know where Canten had given his money.

But he had it all right.

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Philip Noel-Baker, minister of state, told the House of Commons today that Great Britain is not satisfied with Russia's answer to a protest against universal peace agreements with Hungary and Romania.

Foreign Minister Ernest Bevin, he said, is pressing the Soviet government to furnish him with a full text of the agreements and is considering what further action he can sensibly take.

Pro Grid War Stirring Fans To High Pitch

Elmer Layden, National League Commissioner, Talks Out Of Turn, It Seems

By VINCENT A. FLAHERTY
(N. S. Special Sports Writer)
LOS ANGELES, Nov. 20.—There is more than a teapot tempest about the pro football war in progress, becoming a fine-tuned free-for-all.

Unwittingly, Elmer Layden, commissioner of the National Football League, touched it off when, in reference to the new All America Conference, he basted some with a belittlement—something to the effect the All America wasn't worth talking about "until they get a football."

Causes Uproar
Elmer's remark, if he meant to squelch the new and heavier financed league, was like shooting a pop-gun against the hide of a full-grown rhino. But it was none-the-less a shot which can't help but make for a lot of wonderful news and noise from now on until the final owners get together, organize the pro game and reach some amicable agreement whereby the two circuits might hit it off socially like the two major baseball leagues.

So far as Los Angeles is concerned, there can't be much hand-to-hand scuffling because the National league hasn't a rival organization here. The National tried mightily to make a good local tie-up with the Bears, but they were the past five years. They wanted Bing Crosby, a local working man to buy into the league, but Bing kissed the whole thing off and recently kicked up a lot of consternation among the National leaguers when he bought into the Los Angeles All America franchise along with Don Ameche, Louis B. Mayer, Bob Hope, Clark Gable and the two Chicago capitalists, Benjamin F. Landheimer and Daniel Price.

Los Angeles Solid
Now, it is doubtful if the National leaguers would care to back that kind of a solid organization and so Los Angeles is likely to become a one-team community, with only a long range battle in the offing with the National league. That would involve the signing of National league stars, if Los Angeles cares to do so.

But all in all, it's going to be a tremendous break for all concerned. Coaches and players appreciate the fact that the National league has no longer can National league teams sign players at any old figure as in the past. If a player didn't sign, he was simply black-balled through the rest of the National league. He had no alternative. From now on the players can sell themselves to the highest bidder. And it's a break for all concerned, because the public will be assured of the best obtainable in pro football—and, in the long run, owners of both leagues will profit at the box office. There is nothing like a good, two-fisted rivalry.

Pitt And State Battle Saturday

Meeting In Stadium At Pittsburgh Saturday Will Be 45th For Schools

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Nov. 20.—Penn State and Pitt, football rivals since 1883, will go to the post for the 45th time at Pittsburgh Saturday. The game will be the last of the season for both eleven.

Pitt, rolling up wins with monotonous regularity in the years prior to 1939, boasts an advantage of 23 to 17 in the series, with only 2 of the 44 games ending in ties. The stalemates came in successive years, 1920 and 1921.

The National League victors over the Panthers in 1939 for the first time in 20 years, have won four of the last six games. Last year, Pitt scored its first win in four years. Neither team has scored more than 14 points in the last three games.

Penn State's big football tackle, Navy Trainee John Nolan, also is a stand-out in lacrosse.

Sammy Byrd Wins Over Harrison In Alabama Playoff

Faulty Putter Almost Causes Byrd
To Miss $2,000 In Bonds

MOBILE, Ala., Nov. 20.—(INS)—Sam Byrd pocketed first prize money of $2,000 Alabama open golf tournament today, and offered to sell the putter which nearly cost him the title for $15,000.

Byrd defeated Dutch Harrison of Little Rock Ark. in an 18-hole playoff yesterday after the regulation 72-hole tournament ended in a tie at 283. Byrd's faulty putting roiled him the match on the last hole, leaving the outcome in a playoff.

He discarded a club-headed putter for an old-fashioned club head, and the results in the playoff, Byrd potted a three-putt, 49, to Harrison's 70 to win first money of $2,000 in Victory bonds. Harrison won $1,333.

PITTSBURGH, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Nelson Foster, 98, and his wife, on a highway and tossed them on a fire today after a 30-hour escape during which his family reported him as a missing person.

He returned home last night and was asked:

"Where have you been, Dad?"

"Out in the country," was his reply and that's all he would say.

His family attributed his wanderlust to the fact he was a hick-driver or years and that was when a back was a back with a horse out in front.

Foster is 98 and the oldest missing person ever reported in Pittsburgh, according to records.

Finkle Back, Boxers Quake

Old "Evil Eye" Finkle Out Of Army Will Again Put
"Eye" On Boxers

By GARRETT WATERS
(International News Service Writer)
WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—The boxing world can start bracing itself. Ben Finkle, better known as "Evil Eye Finkle," is ready once again to terrorize the boys from some corner of the ring.

Finkle, who readily admits being the "No. 1 box man in the world of sports," is the well known and who for years has hovered about the squared circle, squinting his eye at boxers he wanted to lose, hoping to win them.

Has Evil Eye
Because of his grim, menacing stare, boxing people all down the line have dubbed him as the man with "the evil eye."

Finkle entered the army early in 1942 at the age of 42. He went to Scott Field, Ill., as a duty officer in the army air force and acted as boxing instructor in the physical training department before going to Europe.

"I could have gotten out because of my age," Finkle declared, "but I stayed in because the boys wanted me to put the eye on Hitler, Mussolini and Tojo. I failed to get near any of 'em though."

Finkle started giving boxing "evil eye" back in 1931. It was as a gag at first, he said, but only fight managers saw the effect it had on those in the ring, he's been in demand ever since.

Fame Spreads
"In Europe my fame even spread to Russia," he interposed. "Over there they called me the guy with the 'shubodka stare'."

Finkle said he has been "having off" since boxing since his discharge from the army back in September.

"I had to work the old eye as hard while in the service that I figured I needed a 'little rest,'" he said. "But I'm getting the urge again and I'm something my services are available right here and now."

Finkle declared that he hasn't intended using his "evil eye" when he entered the service because he "didn't want to work against the allies."

But a fellow he asked me to use it in a softball game once there, he agreed. "Now that was a real hot spot, it was so good for my team, I put it on so good for my team, I had everybody on the other team up in the air."

ders Now Ready To

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Jim Castiglia and Reo Canale were slated to rejoin the Eagles for practice today as the eleven prepared for the important tilt on Sunday with the Washington Redskins at Philadelphia's Shibe park.

Castiglia, who played with the Eagles in 1941, is now on football with the Army. Canale, an Eagle in 1943 and 44, is now on a 30-day terminal leave prior to his separation from the air force.

At the same time Coach George Kneafsky, has been put on the inactive list because of leg injuries sustained in last Sunday's game with Pittsburgh.

Report Kirn Will Coach Navy Eleven

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(INS)—The Army and Navy Register, a service publication, said today that Cmdr. Louis J. Kirn has been selected to succeed Coach Oscar Hagberg as head coach of the Navy football team.

The statement, which was not made public otherwise, came behind repeated reports that Navy would choose a more experienced man to assume charge of the football team for 1946.

Boudreau Looks To 1946 Season

Says "I'll Have A Couple
Of Players To Trade This Year"

By JAMES ENRIGHT
(International News Service Writer)
CHICAGO, Nov. 20.—The 1946 baseball "picking season" today already was underway.

Left Boudreau, Cleveland's grown-up boy manager, fired the first shot. Half kidding and half serious, Boudreau reasoned:

"Guess I can't do any trading with Duke, Duke, Duke, the Chicago White Sox managers this winter. With all the players he's getting from the service, he's going to be tough. And I'm not going to help bolster a team that already looks like the club to beat for the American league pennant."

Couple For Trade
Pressed a bit further, Boudreau did admit he got a player or two he might be interested in trading during the winter league meeting opening Dec. 3 in Columbus, O., at the major's convulse in Chicago the following week.

Furthermore, the wife of Harvey Hill, first coach of Chicago, didn't deny one of those players was Lefty Heath, slugging outfielder.

Boudreau said he was fairly well fixed with Cleveland prospects for next season. He declared he would have four of the best pitchers in baseball—Bob Feller, Steve Granger, Alvin Karpis and Red Evers.

HERE AND THERE

COACH JIM PHELAN of St. Mary's Gaelic is reported to have said he feeds ionic calcium to his gridders before every game and to which he ascribes the successful gallop of the Gaelic this season which causes some to inquire as to what is Ted Earl Black's Army event?

Eagle Eye Raymond Stoughton, Harlansburg, was a New Castle visitor Monday. He is one of the better shots among woodsmen.

Birds have been scarce in Volant vicinity this season according to Sam Campbell who trails a wounded bird faster than an Indianapolis 500. President of the Lawrence County Sportsmen's Association, Woodbury, Pa., says that last week he shot a rabbit during daytime see him while inquiring some in the dark.

Lawrence County sportsmen will nominate officers for 1946 at their December meeting. Russell Baxter, light-heavyweight, and George Smith, colored, middleweight, both are "working out" at the Jefferson A. C. Benji Newkirk, also from service, Bernice Frankie Moran, both amateurs, also are getting in shape. Lord Bowell, Maine Chance farm, captured the Lawrence County Handicap at Pineville, Pa., several days ago. Here & There reported the sale by Captain Eddie Hagenbush of the Spencer, Pa. Indianapolis, for $750.00. The purchaser, it is now reported, are Arthur Hummel, Jr., Terre Haute, Indiana, and Captain, Wilbur Shaw, three-time winner of the classic, will be president of the corporation.

Jack Welch of Campfire Corner advises deer hunters to carry an axe with them when they go deer hunting. It will come in handy if one has to spend a night in the woods, he explains. He also advises that a shovel, long rope, a chain, fire chains and some hardwood planking put into a sack. They'll come in useful if there's a heavy snow and a car becomes stuck or a fire seems changing.

Volant hunters also say that an inexperienced bear or deer hunter should also get a "cuppa" and learn to read it. Cuppa's have been seen near here. They also say that if one becomes lost, because excited and can't find a trail and has some reserve chocolate or food in their kit, they don't need to worry.

Members of the National League's Pacific troupe are ready for a 30,000 mile tour of Army, Navy and Marine bases. The troupe consists of Brooklyn Dodger Coach, Charlie Downer; Wilbur Kosmanovich, St. Louis Cardinals will play third base; Tom Brown, Dodger, shortstop; Charlie Barker, Cardinals, pitcher; Frank McGowan, Cincinnati Reds, first baseman; Bill Vukobrat, New York Giants, pitcher; Ed Joyce, Giants, shortstop; Buddy Kean, Giants, shortstop; Tom Seale, Dodger, pitcher; Charlie Workman, Boston Braves, third base.

MARKET TODAY IS IRREGULAR

NEW YORK, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Stocks edged along today with most price changes within fractions of last night's closings. Volume, too, was off slightly, 390,000 shares against 460,000 yesterday.

Pivotal were irregularly lower. U. S. Steel, Chrysler, General Motors were all easier. Standard Gas $4 pld, which had been unusually strong in recent sessions, turned lower, giving up about a point and a half. Other utility and rail issues were firm, the quiet.

Curb stocks were mixed, bonds steady.

State Exhibit On Government

Exhibition At State Capitol
Aid To Program To
"Know Your Government"

OTHER NEWS OF STATE AFFAIRS

HARRISBURG, Nov. 20.—(INS)—"Know your state government," an exhibition held last week at the State Capitol, depicted the activities of the various agencies of the commonwealth. The exhibit was held in line with Gov. Edward Martin's campaign to inform Pennsylvanians of the services of the various state departments and other agencies. Corridors and several large rooms on the first floor of the capitol building were jammed with displays which included the death masks of the "Babe in the Woods," three California children found dead eleven years ago in Cumberland county.

The fish commission, illustrated Pennsylvania's "dirty stream" problem. The display, a small-scale miniature town which also had a tanning factory, showed one portion of a stream which was clean because the mills in that area had been sealed. The other half of the streamway, into which acid mine drainage and industrial waste flowed. Minnows were swimming in the clean stream but the fish which had been placed in the polluted water had died. The display was considered a forceful illustration of the "dirty water" problem.

Rep. Lloyd H. Wood (R-Montgomery), has been mentioned by some Capitol Hill Republican leaders as a possible candidate for the Senate seat of the late Franklin Spencer Edmonds Wood, serving his fourth term in the house, was first elected to the chamber in 1938. Edmonds died October 29. The post will probably be filled at a special election next year.

The Pennsylvania council of Republican women has scheduled a meeting at Harrisburg December 10 to consider resolutions. At the organization's 23rd annual convention at Harrisburg, no resolutions were adopted. One delegate said that the atomic bomb had been discussed by representatives and because of the critical times no action had been taken on resolutions. "This council, like many other organizations, feels humble in this atomic age," the delegate said gravely.

Gov. Edward Martin has disclosed that battle flags and banners of the various regiments of the 28th Division, peacetime defense force for the commonwealth, were being returned to the military affairs department for preservation. Destruction of the "bloody bucket" division, which saw service in England, France, Belgium, Luxembourg and Germany, was expected to be announced around December 1, the governor said, or about two weeks after the process was completed.

Admiral Kimmel Issued Order For Berthing Of Ships

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—The Pearl Harbor investigating committee was told Monday that Admiral Husband E. Kimmel issued the order that battleships of the Pacific fleet would be "tied up in pairs" at the naval base.

The battleships were in that position when Jap bombing planes came over the horizon the morning of Dec. 7, 1941, and launched their successful torpedo and level bombing attack.

Rear Admiral T. B. Inglis, navy intelligence chief, disclosed under cross examination that the berthing order was contained in a circular letter from the commander-in-chief of the Pacific fleet, Admiral Kimmel, who later was suspended from active duty for alleged dereliction. Rep. Gearhart (R-Calif.) brought out the reference to Kimmel in opening the questioning of Inglis on the inspection of fleet units.

"Who issued the order that the battleships should be tied up in pairs?" Gearhart asked.

"It was contained in a circular letter from the commander in chief of the Pacific fleet—Admiral Kimmel," Inglis replied.

Urges Permission For Entrance Into Palestine At Once

LONDON, Nov. 20.—(INS)—Former Senator Guy M. Gillette of Iowa urged the unrestricted flow of Jewish immigrants into Palestine during the discussion period of the Anglo-American committee that will study the Palestine question. Gillette was joined in his proposal by Rep. Andrews L. Somers (D-N.Y.) and Pauline J. David Stern of the Philadelphia Record, all of whom are in Great Britain in the hope of selling "Great Britain on the urgent need of allowing German Jews into Palestine."

"The Jews are dying in Europe," Gillette declared. "For humanitarian reasons alone we must permit unrestricted immigration into Palestine immediately and as long as the commission is investigating."

"We cannot hold off and await the commission's report," Gillette said. "The question about the extent to which American aid should be used in peacetime Palestine. Gillette pointed out that he was speaking only as a member of the delegation, but declared that he would advocate full American participation, including the Navy and the Army, if Britain requested it."

"If Britain asks not to give refuge to a hundred thousand or more Jews," Gillette said, "it will save many lives and win the gratitude and respect of the world."

"If she postpones action until after the commission reports, Britain will be blamed for the needless sacrifice of these lives."
